A REMARKABLE CONTEST

LE MATIN SAYS EUROPEANS EX-PECT NOTHING.

Figure Believes That the Triumph of Silver Means That All American Obligations Will Be Paid in 50-Cent Dollars-Other Wise Conclusions of Great Men Over the Ocean

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The Temps, in its issue this morning, devoted a leading ties for getting election returns were thoroughly appreciated. editorial to the presidential election in the United States in which it says:

that country since the formation of the government and the electors will have pronounced between two radically opposed tendencies—one continuing the normal development of the states, and the other impelling the country towards unknown horizons. Briefly, as between McKinley and Bryan, the solution is simply a status quo or a revolution. It is the first time in America, and perhaps the first time in the world, that a like contest has been engaged in upon questions lying upon the foundations of social order with the issue depending upon a single throw of the dice."

EXPECT NOTHING.

The Matin says: "Europeans expect holders of American securities will re-ceive for the coupons paper based upon sliver worth in money only 50 per cent of what they should receive, and Amer-ica will appropriate from all of her creditors one-half of their holdings."

As Seen by Smalley.

LONDON, Nov. 3 .- Mr. Smalley, the American correspondent of the Times, cables to that paper that he had a long interview with Mr. McKinley on Fri-day. Summarized, the interview shows that Mr. McKinley takes a high ylew. of the electoral contest, in which he believes that the real issue is between those who would preserve the republic and those who would destroy it, replacing it by a different form of government and a different form of society. eriment and a different form of society. He is and will remain a convinced protectionist, but Mr. Smalley does not think that a new tariff any longer seems to him the only view necessary of American industry. It is Mr. Mc-Kinley's conviction that every obligation of the United States ought to be paid when it matures, in the best money extering at the time. He is appreciatly not affected by the dislike of Graat Britain, which is supposed to exist in the middle states and has no faith in jealousy or hostility as the mainspring of national policy. He considers the extent and force of the alleged western animosity toward Great Britain to be much overrated.

Mr. Smalley remarks that all doubt concerning the result of the election in New York has vanished.

Each one of these gentiemen is an inventor of the terpsichorcan order, and he attends the conclave equapped with elaborately drawn diagrams of the dance with which he expects to convuise society later on.

In nine cases out of ten this dance is never heard of again, although it may receive the richest possible endorsement of the American Association of the Professors of Dancing. The facilt is not with the association. The members certainly recognize a graceful dance when they see it; the trouble lies with the public.

The association has best held its an action of dancers, and each province has a distinct dance of its own, handed down from the fifteenth or sixteenth centuries.
